Class Information

Infant and Toddler Class (0-3 yo)

This age group is when children's brains develop the quickest and are at their most absorptive; the ideal time to start with Right Brain Development.

In Heguru's Infant & Toddler Classes, we have developed our own unique programme to ensure that our students excel in their futures, whatever subjects or fields they decide to go into.

Pre-school 1 Class (4-5 yo)

The time to train the Left Brain as well as the Right Brain

To think for oneself and strengthen one's comprehension and adaptability skills, it is important to train the Left Brain at the same time.

Pre-school 2 Class (>5 yo)

When preschoolers reach 5 and 6 years old their workload increases significantly,

And so their lesson times become longer.

HEGURU CLASS

Pre-natal Class

When the bond between mother and child is strengthened by communicating with your unborn baby.

Having parents talk to their unborn babies in a relaxed setting and manner is good for the babies' state of mind, which in turn allows the mother herself to have a happy and uncomplicated delivery.

How Heguru Education's Whole Brain Training

NURTURES FAST AND WELL-ROUNDED LEARNERS

By Rebecca Wong – www.thenewageparents.com

It's commonly assumed that the left brain is associated with logic and reasoning (and therefore academic abilities), whilst the right brain is responsible for one's creative functions.

However, right brain training posits that the right brain is equally responsible for enhancing a child's overall learning abilities.

"From birth to three years old, the right side of the brain develops faster, so that's the golden period for unlocking its potential."

Giving your little one a head start in right brain training helps unlock abilities such as visualization, photographic memory, high-speed processing ability and numerical and literacy skills – all of which are essential for raising a fast and well-rounded learner.

Unlike other whole-brain enrichment centre, Heguru Education also prides itself on its small class size. The centre has at least 2 teachers per class, with a maximum of 8-10 parent-child pairs in the Infant & Toddler Course.

Additionally, teachers from Heguru Education all undergo rigorous teachers' training courses and certification tests in Heguru Japan to ensure that they are well-equipped in conducting Heguru classes.

Heguru's Infant & Toddler Class: Our verdict

After hearing so much about Heguru Education's classes, we just had to sit in and experience one for ourselves! We attended an Infant & Toddler class for 2 year-olds, which consisted of 2 teachers and 4 pairs of parents and toddlers. Our thoughts? There was never a dull moment.

Classes are well-paced, entertaining and extremely educational. Students were all smiles, and appeared very focused on the activities at hand. Parents seemed to be enjoying themselves as well, using the class as an opportunity to bond with their mini-mes!

Activities covered included flashcard trivia sessions covering a wide range of subjects such as history, biology, geography and even zoology.

For example, there were flashcards depicting types of birds and famous landmarks around the world. With so much information being presented, we definitely learned a thing or two as well!

Other fun activities included memory exercises, identifying colors, solving simple puzzles, number games and pictorial presentations.

What also impressed us was the focus on sensory development. The teachers used various visual and audio effects, such as lighting and songs, to create a fully immersive experience for students. There were quite a few tactile-centered activities too, like puzzles involving wooden blocks and a short coloring session.

Teachers were extremely adept at the curriculum and knew how to communicate well with the young students. They were also experts at time management and were able to maintain the pace and energy throughout the whole class.

All-in-all, our verdict is that Heguru Education's classes definitely inject fun into learning – a stark change from the rote-learning you find in many classrooms.

Courses are also available for students up to 6 years old, left brain development is also introduced to sharpen cognitive and analytical skills.
